THE NEW FRENCH CABINET

Gen de Cissey, the Premier of the new French Cabinet, is about 61 years old, and has passed most of his life in military service. He was a Minister of War under M. Thiers, and nominally held the same position for a few days in the Cabinet headed by the Duc de Broglie, but did not continue, because he disapproved the reactionary tendencies he detected in his new colleagues. He is said to be a moderately able and thoroughly honest representative of the Left Centre, having been no less outspoken than M. Thiers in his declarations that the definitive Constitution of the Republic is the only practical solution of the political difficulties of France. M. Magne, the Minister of Finance, is a barrister by profession, and was first elected into the Assembly in 1849. Since then he was Under Secretary of State in 1849, Minister of Public Works in 1851, Minister of Finance in 1852, Minister without a portfolio in 1860, and member of the Privy Council in 1864. He has never withdrawn from public life, was always considered to be an independent Imperialist, and has taken an active part in the framing of all the financial laws and operations which have been brought forth in France since the conclusion of the war. The Duke Decazes, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, was in office under Louis Philippe as Secretary of the Embassy in London, and as Minister in Spain and Portugal. Since 1848 he has taken no part in public affairs up to the time when a number of royal votes in the Gironde sent him to the present Assembly. M. Eugene Caillaux, the Minister of Public Works, is now in his 53d year, and is by profession an engineer. He is a Conservative with Liberal tendencies. M. Louis Givart, Minister of Commerce, is known only as a barrister, an Orleanist and a Deputy for Haute Vilaine. The Viscount de Cumont, the Minister of Public Instruction, is a clerical zealot. He was the proprietor and editor of the Union de l'Ouest, a paper which supported Archbishop Dupanloup in his polemic against Lord Vendor M. Adrien Lebland, Minister of Justice, is a legitimist, and a lawyer. He was an attorney (procureur) under Louis Philippe, and was dismissed during the revolution of 1847. He is a Bonapartist. The Marquis de Montagnac, Minister of the Marine, is an old admiral, who was constantly at sea up to 1870, and has been a member of the admiralty ever since. He took part together with the present colleague, General de Cissey in the capture of the Fort Vanves and the general destruction of the Commune. M. Randy de Fourtou the Minister of the Interior, is a Radical Conservative. On the whole, the composition of the ministry is not decidedly Republican, although it might be difficult to say what manner shall make it be. Possibly according to the reported Parisian opinion, it is nondescript.

THE ASSESSOR OF THE BONNET

[From the Pall Mall Gazette.]

The name of the bonnet, we believe, still survives for a curiously exaggerated ornament of head-dress, and it is possible that in the female mind the subtle ways of which are unsearchable, some kind of historical unity with regard to the article has been kept up, so that women may still imagine that they wear bonnets. But as men understand things, bonnets have ceased to be. It is the most complete ignorance of dress made for many years. We are not at all setting up as a past against the present. The existing female fashion is always, in our judgment, the most charming, it is so for the reason that it is the only one comprehended by actual fact. Nor one of the old types has a right (even of bright eyes or rosy) cheeks to recommend it. Besides, the celestials surely need not ask those to whom they show themselves whether they are to appear. If male beaux have any justified in any application of a censorship in what they ask that women should reveal, not hide, their faces, and in leaving all the mystic rose tone to the full in that point of their attire. No woman in England now conceals a single feature, forehead, cheeks, dimpled or otherwise, dimpled chins, earrings, all are visible.

In speaking of the change of appearance caused by the absence of the bonnet, we know better than to be critical; we are dealing with it only as a matter of abstract speculation and respectful reminiscence. First of all it undoubtedly goes away with a strong difference previously observed between the in door and outdoor looks of women. A bonnet more or less transforms the wearer, in some cases the alteration is made was inexplicably great. The change is not always to advantageous, at times it was decidedly so, but in every case there was change of a measure and degree. This is clean gone now. Now we see women, indoors and out doors, with just the same play of light and shade upon the entire head that is, with all the light possible to fall upon it. It is true, other parts of dress in the same way are becoming indicted. Fortune seasons past feminine surgery has been growing less and less concealing. Our streets promises to show us ground in ladies middle stories of the principal lines of the feminine contour as in the sculpture of home. Every year the celestials become kinder, increasingly revealing themselves to casual beholders. Men have never yet lined the streets with wholly uncovered visage. The narrowest of bonnets has always cast a little modest shadow on the mystical no features. No doubt, the ladies will say the creation is to do show his face at all; but our present topic is bonnets, and we must keep to it.

Beyond, during the vogue of some styles, made to produce wonderful effects on the sympathies of the wearers. Softened gleams of reflected, pale, faint, tints of welcome colour, not seen when the face was no longer within the bonnet, trembled there so long as it was received in that connection. Miracles were feared, we admit. At times cheeks glowed like a sunset or turned of indescribable hues, even greenish. How it was done one may not pretend to know. We only we heard something about silk and satin linings; but these are such mysteries, often, beneath being in that way a positive resource of the toilet, a bonnet, within the limit of manageable dimensions, lent itself to a skilful art of wearing. A face conscious of its attractiveness could be tempting by half the gaze, or simple curiosity at almost any selected stage of incompleteness. By means of the bonnet a woman could vary the profile now through a series of moon like phases, the charming vision obscuring and eclipsing slowly. Your coquettish lady knew to hair all the features of the head required in each case, with a necessary feminine accomplishment. All this is over. The taunting persistence of the bonnet which would not turn to give the opportunity of a second look after the first hasty one is gone; while artifice is no longer needed to obtain full inspection. A beauty once across the threshold can no longer wilfully hide. The face, great or how fair, is there for all to see, and how all can see all of it. A beautiful face hidden me de a bonnet gave the finder a sense of personal and peculiar discovery. The very point no man can now have. Extreme bonnets there were at some periods which made discovery impossible, the range of the human vision was not sufficient to ascertain what really was in the far end of them. But extremes may fairly be omitted from observation.

What is now worse—we must not say in the place of the bonnet, but in a part of the type not in them, an exaggerated dream of the Lais. The essential characteristics of the bonnet is that it modifies the face; whatever variations fashion takes it through, it must keep some power of affecting the light and shade on the features. So soon as what is worn diminishes to a degree which puts this out of, or is wholly removed from vision to the countenance, the male intellect, at any rate requires that it should take another name. It has ceased to be a bonnet. What at present worn has no relation to the face—it obscures purpose is to display the hair. This is not merely another purpose; it is something contrary. The hair is a characteristic lovable charm which until recently it was a long-standing English custom not fully to display. It was an indoor inclosure, great is restrained there. Now a good deal more than only a trifle of it is constantly exposed up the public gaze. For that has happened which a moment's thought is enough to show was inevitable. The hair is a charm in which women are very unequally endowed; but it is also one in which deficiencies can be most easily passed. Under the influence of the modern purpose which every woman has to be both nil no other woman in what is admired, all the sex now present the same incredible wealth of tresses. This has gone on till the adornment of the head has lost all natural character, it has become an accepted and understood artificial contrivance. Fash, however, is a much neglected deity, and here is a fresh opportunity for its cultivation.—Men ought always to make an effort to believe. In any case this is the last proof possible of the kindness of the sex; they now publicly show men the whole of their faces, and more than the whole of their hair it was possible in the latter respect to go further, and they have gone further.

The fashion has been in existence so long, and there are women, no longer juvenile, who have never worn a genuine bonnet—over the ladies think they have shown men enough of their cheeks and too much of their tresses, the bonnet will doubtless come back again. Is it possible that a certain bewitching modest style of head-dress, which old jigger say has not been so frequently seen of late years, might come back with it? It is not practicable in this world always to say of two things which is the cause and which the effect. It may be that bonnets are the true cause of retiring modest female face. Should it be so, their abolishing absence explains something in present appearances. One thing bonnets always did; they told the wearer and other people, when she was in public. This is no longer; and mistakes are consequently being made in consequence.

THE MARRIAGE OF PRINCESS LOUISE

The marriage of Princess Louise, the fourth daughter of Queen Victoria, to the Marquis of Lorne, eldest son of the Duke of Argyll, will take place on the 21st of June. The Princess is twenty-three years old, and the Marquis is twenty-seven. The Marquis is a Liberal in politics, and has been a member of Parliament since 1868. He is a Scotch peer, and has been Governor General of Canada since 1878. The Princess is the most artistic of the Queen's children, and is a skilful painter and sculptor. She is also a musician of no mean ability. The Marquis is a poet of considerable merit, and has published several volumes of verse. The Princess is a favorite with the people, and the marriage will be a popular one.

Last week the Freeman House at Cherryfield, used as a mill boarding house was destroyed by fire, several other dwellings catching fire, but were extinguished without much damage.

Fifty thousand salmon have been turned into the spawning houses on the Georgetown river, have been placed in the Brooks tributaries to that stream and fifty thousand more will be added.

The members of Portland held a meeting Saturday afternoon to consider the subject of building a grain elevator. The sentiment of the meeting was in favor of building.

In the Boston Municipal Court Friday, Charles Gordon and Charles Blake who are charged with breaking and entering the store of Andrew Rowe, in Maine, and stealing $300 worth of boots and shoes, were held in $500 each for examination on the 26th.

A certain saloon keeper in Portland who had been addicted to keeping a nuisance, was taken into court to plead his own cause, thus saving lawyer's fees. He plead guilty, and wanted to pay his fine, but was very much surprised as well as disgusted when the judge gave him four months in jail.

Last week the village of Bethel barely escaped a serious conflagration, by the timely discovery of a fire upon the roof of the house of Charles Newton, esq. Almost an hour after the burning of the chimney, Mrs Enoch Foster discovered fire upon the roof of the ell, and gave the alarm, and help being at hand, the fire was extinguished with a few buckets of water. Friday, the house of James Smith, with its contents was consumed—it was about one mile from the village. The family were away.

Wednesday afternoon, Edward Fox had left his horse took fright at some thing and run from the road down the river bank, and struck it, tipped the sleigh containing the horse over and completely him in the water. The horse then struck nearer the river and after going some two rods further up the stream went into the river, was caught by the ice in a current, and was carried down the stream where he was found was drowned, the horse was a valuable one.—Dr Bartlett was but slightly injured.

THE NEXT CONGRESS.

From the N Y Times]

The nominations for the Forty fourth Congress is already under consideration, and so far as the Republican Party is concerned, we presume few will deny that these nominations require the exercise of the utmost prudence and sagacity There is likely to be an absence of exciting political issues, and this will tend to make Congressional elections much more difficult to carry than they have been in many years. But the more closely attention is confined to the merits of candidates, the better men we shall be obliged to name, and the better the men named, the longer is the party's lease of power likely to be extended For a good while now, thanks to the headly obstinacy of our opponents, the Republicans have enjoyed the usual privilege of electing a large majority in Congress with very little difficulty. We think the most ardent leaders will concede that however conscientiously the party has used this privilege as a rule there have been some notable exceptions. The Congress elected next Fall will have much to do with the issues to be presented at the next Presidential election, and their action, more than any one thing besides that can now be seen, will decide the fate of the Republican Party at that time We are far from saying that the action of the Forty fourth Congress will be conclusive on that point. It may be, and may not be Prophecy concerning an election two years ahead of us is not an attractive venture just now But we may be perfectly sure that with a majority of careful, capable, and thoroughly upright Republicans in the next Congress, the election of the Republican candidate for the Presidency in 1876 will be a much easier matter than it would otherwise prove

The Republican Party still has the best body of public men from whom to select its representatives, and its representatives can rely on a strong and intelligent general opinion in the party to back them if they do their duty The traditions of the party are all of them right, and some of them simply glorious If, then, it has the will to do so, it can govern the country with moreh good sense and energy than any other party, old or new, can bring to the work Whether the Republican Party will have the opportunity to do this depends entirely upon its own action. It will rest to the best services of its best men It is obvious that the party, under these circumstances, can afford to entertain but few claims of back politicians upon its favors which have been conceded only too readily in the past The habit which some civil functions have fallen into of electing a number of Congressmen principally to distribute local patronage in the District, is one that can with safety be indulged in this year So far as it is possible, the nominations should not be built to a few interested politicians but should be taken into the hands of the party generally It is not difficult in any given district for a judicious selection to be indicated and this is really necessary is that the general opinion of the party should be given an opportunity for deliberate expression Anything like an attempt to pervert the machinery of party to private ends, and to suppress a misrepresent a fair expression of preference, would this year be a grosser insult and a deeper injury than usual, and should not be tolerated for an instant

On the other hand it is a time when all who have the interests of the country at heart should surrender mere personal considerations We shall need good nominations, and we shall need for these the hearty support of the great body of the party There has never been a time in the history of the party when its disinterested members could do so much good as they can do in the next two months if they take the trouble to labor hard to secure good nominations and to secure good candidates when they are nominated they will probably succeed implacing the party on a very strong footing They can remove very all the causes that have brought the party into difficulty. If we suppose it a time to do odd work at Washington that the party has been brought into some difficulty I late They can give it a much higher tone and can greatly enlarge its capacity for usefulness Of course this implies effort and will call for the personal sacrifices of time and money that is the price of running a free government when any trouble to its citizens has not yet been taken out If respectable people will not take what trouble is necessary we shall take it and parts of the country will suffer more by the rule of the ignorant than they will in the present case The result would unquestionably be to leave the Republican Congressional nominations to those professionals who are ready at all times to attend to them And when a sufficient number of insignificant and worthless men have been chosen, and by this method they surely will be it will be quite in order for the respectable among us to cry out after the degeneracy of our party and ask each other if its "mission" is not accomplished and to wash our hands of the whole affair But in the long run, we shall find that we cannot wash our hands of it, and that if we fail to do what is within our power now to make the Republican Party worthy of success we shall have a good deal more trouble than such an effort now I rest to get another or better one than is better

THE BOWDOIN REBELLION Our despatches announce that between 60 and 100 students of the three lower classes of Bowdoin College, having persisted in refusing to attend the military drill, have been sent home to their parents without being informed of the real intentions of the Faculty. From the figures given it would appear that quite a number must have receded, as the signatures to the bond were stated to number 121. The insubordinates continue to receive little comfort from the newspapers which generally express emphatic disapproval of the outbreak. The Boston Journal publishes a student's letter and in its comments editorially says: "We are certainly not inclined to condemn students because they are students, but we do condemn a revolt against the authorized faculty of any institution of learning, as it invariably lessens popular respect for the college, and is detrimental to the prosperity of the institution." The Boston Post deprecates insubordination, but pats the boys on the back in the course of a political leader. The Lewiston Journal reviews the facts in an editorial and offers some good advice to both sides, but what its opinion is on the merits of the case is "one of those things which no fellah can find out." The Press says reports were circulated in Brunswick Monday, that officers of Amherst and Dartmouth had signified their willingness to receive the rebellious students if expelled from Bowdoin; but such an encouragement of insubordination by officers of other colleges is too improbable to be credited. The Press says it was also reported that the parents of nearly three-fourths of the students had signified disapproval of their courses, while another report is directly the reverse. A special to the Boston Advertiser says many were forced into the movement by the excitement and clamor and that some of the students report that "one of the newspapers of the State promised to support them in any action of this kind." The despatch adds that "the Faculty will stand firm in behalf of good order and College discipline."

The article which we re-publish to-day from the N Y. Times, with reference to the choice of members of the next Congress contains sound advice which is Applicable wherever candidates are to be chosen It has been plainly demonstrated by several of the more recent elections that the apathy of a large number of Republicans, in the absence of any exciting issue can only be overcome by selecting the soundest and strongest men for positions of public trust, and the approach of another Presidential canvass which will be greatly influenced by the character of intervening legislation, renders it doubly important for the Republican party that constituencies in every part of the land shou d send men of the highest character and ability to the front The State of Maine has been fortunate in the fact that its delegation has passed unscathed through the ordeal of investigations and exposures, and that amid the storm of scandal that has swept over the national capital, not a breath of suspicion has rested upon the fair fame of any of its members. Our State is also fortunate in the fact that, its constituencies are learning to appreciate the advantage of retaining the services of those who have proved their efficiency and whose influence is largely increased by experience in legislation Our delegation has been united and sound upon all the important issues presented in Congress and there can be no doubt of the renomination of Messrs Burleigh in the first district, Frye in the second, Blaine in the third, Hale in the fifth, and Gen Hersey in our own district, unless the latter should be prevented by ill the sixth from accepting a candidacy.

We have noticed in our exchanges a great deal of speculation with reference to the Caldwell case in this district and a number of gentlemen are named as actively working to secure the nomination This would seem to be not only premature but also somewhat disconsolate to Gen. Hersey, who has struggled zealously against failing health in the performance of his public duties, who is entitled by our established usage to a re nomination, and whose friends earnestly hope for his ultimate restoration to strength and vigor Whenever it shall be understood that Gen Hersey is not to be a candidate we command to the Republicans of the district a thoughtful consideration of the words which we have quoted from the Times, believing with that journal that it is the duty of the people to cast about among their number for the man in every way worthy to represent them in the national councils, and to make the choice without regard to individual efforts or aspirations

The President has very properly removed Adolf Cluss, the civil engineer member of the Board of Public Works, who has, according to his own testimony, permitted wrong doing. He has nominated Richard L. Hoxie of the Engineer Corps, in his place.

In the adoption of the new constitution in Switzerland, that Republic, which has heretofore been merely a loose confederation of states, is made a consolidated government with greatly enlarged powers This is a great stride, and its results will be watched with great interests by the European powers

The Mill River relief committee report as needing assistance 146 families, comprising 740 persons, whose aggregate loss is nearly two hundred and fifty thousand dollars. The committee think $75,000 has been subscribed, and that $25,000 more will be needed to meet the urgent necessities of the sufferers.

The Press pointedly says: 'The Maine State Herald is trying to make capital out of the creation of the office of Commissioner of Sinking Funds. Be honest, admit that the bill creating the office was untiringly pushed by a member that the State Herald helped, elect and who, as a reformer, stood so high above others as to be nominated for Governor from the floor" It may be new to be fair, but try it

THE MILL RIVER DISASTER. A large number of witnesses were examined at the inquest in Northampton, Tuesday, including engineers, contractors and others connected with the building of the reservoir The testimony presented a damaging array of facts, showing the insecurity of the foundations and the sham construction of the dam, as well as the gross neglect of precautions by those who have had the oversight of the reservoir One witness, an engineer, was so affected by the character of his own testimony that he fainted and had to be taken out of the court room.

DRINKING STATISTICS. There are 140,000 saloons in the country, against 128,000 schools, and only 71,000 churches. Manufacturers and sellers of strong drink, 500,000 —twelve times the number of clergymen, four times the teachers, nearly double all the lawyers, physicians, teachers and ministers combined. In these saloons there are 5,000, 000 daily customers, one in seven of the whole population! Of these 100,000 are annually imprisoned for crime, at an expense of $100,- 000,000, and 150,000 go down to the drunkard's grave, leaving two hundred thousand beggared orphans Grasp these figures. An army of tipers five abreast one hundred miles in length. A rank of beggared widows and children stretching across the State of Massachusetts. A file of men seventy-five miles in length marching steadily down to the grave, three every minute through the year. This awful column, in its ceaseless tramp, tramp of death, whence is it recruited? As from year's 150,000 goes down, another 150,- 000 is pressing in to fill their places, and the other back of that, and another, pouring down from every hamlet and hillside in the country, a reeling, cursing, shrieking crowd of demoniacal men, speeding by their own hands into eternity.—Cor. of Congregationalist

THINGS ON THE FUTURE OF FRANCE. Ex President Thiers on Saturday received a deputation from the department of the Gironde, and in reply to their address said:—

The monarchy which he was overthrown for not establishing was impossible. The conservative republic alone could reconcile and pacify France He hoped that after its recent experience the Assembly would admit the necessity of making the country the sovereign arbiter. If it persisted in sitting, while powerless to attain any definite result, it would exceed the bounds of reason. Unable to form a government, the majority had lost the means and right to govern He, therefore, expected a dissolution, which would reestablished the Assembly in the eyes of the nation. The electors would be less wise and moderate the longer dissolution was delayed.

THE HENRY F. MILLER

NEW SQUARE

Grand Piano.

The success of the Henry F. Miller Piano in the establishment in Boston is the most remarkable of the kind in the history of the trade. The new square grand, recently introduced, the demand for which is constantly increasing, has already taken a long stride among the most popular pianos, and is not yet in its infancy as first-class piano. It has taken unbroken with the new upright grand throughout the entire country, including a reasonable round and rich in quality, the style of the instrument itself is superb, in design it has upon it the stamp of individuality. In this connection, we notice that one of these new instruments has recently been purchased for use in the new High School of Somerville, Mass., during the same season by the School Committee of Newton, the best pianos in the market, the selection of the Henry F. Miller square grands, although costing $300 is not only a high compliment to the establishment, but also to the good judgment of the committee A similar piano has also been added to the resources of the High School at Grafton, in this State, during the same year. Both of these instruments have also been sent to San Francisco, and to Helena, in Montana Territory, over 900 miles from the nearest railroad point, and in addition to these instruments have been sent to San Francisco

IN SENTS STILL HOLDING OUT—ONLY TWO OF THEIR NUMBER RECEDE.

BRUNSWICK, May 26.

No settlement of the difficulties in Bowdoin College has, as yet, been made. The faculty had a long session last evening; but adjourned at this afternoon, without having arrived at any definite conclusion what course to pursue. It is said by others that members of this Board of Government have decided to abolish the drill at the next commencement, if the students will sign their names. The students, however, say that no meeting this noon, and voted to stand by their former decision and resist it. It is said that a man remains in college from the students have withdrawn their names from the pledge of resistance, leaving out of the drill roll now standing. Some settlement of the difficulty will doubtless be effected during the day or evening.

A majority of the members replied in the affirmative. A few of the other men said that they would obey all rules except those relating to the drill, that they would attend the drill when the faculty required them, but that they should not attend further than that. Many of the students who have refused to do military department were summoned separately before the faculty of the college, and those who declined obedience to the requirements of the College and to the terms of their matriculation pledge, between twenty and one hundred in number, were ordered to await further action. It is understood that these students are neither expelled for any definite time, nor are they sent home until the Faculty have taken further and decisive action.

Mr Hagar moved to strike out the words "under the auspices of the Government of the United States."

Mr Hagar's motion was rejected and Mr Edmunds' motion to strike out the proviso was also rejected and the bill passed—yeas 35, nays 17.

Mr Windom, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported back the Indian appropriation bill with various amendments, the most important one providing that all bidders for Indian contracts exceeding $5,000 in amount shall be required to deposit a certified check for five per cent. of the amount of the bid, to be forfeited in case of failure to enter into or execute the contracts.

The reading of the bill in extenso was then dispensed with.

A message was received from the President transmitting the correspondence of the State Department in regard to the claim on Brazil, concerning the ship Caroline, and the report of commissioners appointed to inquire into the depredations on the frontier of Texas.

The Chair submitted a report of the Chief of Engineers relative to the preservation of the Falls of St. Anthony—ordered to be printed.

At four o'clock the Senate proceeded to the Hall of the House to attend the funeral of the late Hon. D. R. Mellish. The Senate returned at 4 55 and adjourned.

HOUSE

The House resumed the consideration of the report of the Committee on Ways and Means on the Sanborn contracts and was addressed by Mr Beck, a member of that Committee. He spoke of Sanborn as a man who had been paid $2,3,000 for doing absolutely nothing except prosecuting the officers of the government to his own purposes. He had no hesitation in saying that the whole thing was a system of corruption, a perversion of the law, an overriding of authority such as he had never seen equaled and hoped he would never see again. He referred to the investigations of the members of the Committee, the editorials of the administration organ (the Republican) and said that as the Treasury Department had thus thrown down the gauntlet, he would say what he had not intended to say, that he would make the record show that those officials could not stay in that Department, and that no honest President could keep them there. He would not use denunciation, he would bring forth such facts which demanded impeachment and which demanded the conviction of Sanborn to the Penitentiaries of the country. He believed that the Sanborn contracts were made by Mr Richardson as Acting Secretary of the Treasury, taking advantage of the temporary absence of Mr Boutwell. Under Sanborn was allowed a fifty per cent in cases where indictments were already pending, so that there would be no pretense of collusion on the part of Sanborn. He specified particularly the case of Sherman Harmon, and cited other cases where Sanborn was paid 50 per cent of collections not embraced within its first contract and asserted whether that was not an impeachable offense. He referred to the peremptory orders given to the Supervisors and Collectors of Internal Revenue to obey John D Sanborn in all things, which orders were signed by the Secretary or Solicitor or Assistant Secretary, thus making Sanborn absolute master of all these men, while at the same time a severely strict silence in regard to all these transactions had been maintained toward the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, who was by law the only officer authorized to receive these collections.

Referring to Mr Richardson's statement before the Committee, he declared it was absolutely pitiable to see a man at the head of a great Department of the Government, pleading infancy and immaturity, as an excuse for his acts. That the Assistant Secretary had acted by and backed his superior, each trying to throw the blame on the Solicitor and make him appear the guilty man, and that the Solicitor on the contrary had shown that he had not advised the action of his superiors.

Mr Eldridge of Wis., remarked that Mr. Beck had charged and sustained the charge that the Secretary of the Treasury had been guilty of an impeachable offence. If that were so the Committees of Ways and Means could not have done its whole duty until it had reported to the House a resolution of impeachment. The Constitution provided for impeachment, but he knew of no law by which the House could kick an official or pull his ears or pronounce him a rascal.

Mr Beck reminded Mr Eldridge that the question before the House was the question of repealing the law and of annulling the contracts. When the question of impeachment or censure came up, the speech of the gentleman would fit very well. He declared his belief in Secretary Richardson's honesty, but that all his acts showed him to be incapable, to be unfit for his place and to deserve severe censure. At the close of Mr Beck's speech the previous question was ordered, and the matter went over till to-morrow. The House then went into Committee of the Whole on the bill to amend the existing customs and Internal Revenue laws.

Mr Dawes opened the debate on the bill, and was followed by Mr Cox of New York in a speech in favor of the principles of a tariff for revenue only, or free trade.

Mr Burchard of Illinois offered an amendment inserting the words "Cotton or flax" before the words "wool or worsted" in the proviso. Agreed to.

The committee proceed to the consideration of the second section of the bill.

Without further progress on the bill the Committee rose.

Mr Butler of Mass., introduced a joint resolution relative to the compensation of Representatives in Congress, which was referred to the Judiciary Committee. It provides that in case of the death of a member his compensation be paid to his widow or representative up to the close of his successor, and that the pay of the successor shall commence from his election.

The Speaker announced the appointment of Messrs Hale of N Y, of Hoar of Mass and Young of Ga, as visitors to West Point Academy.

Mr. Townsend from the Committee on Public Lands, made a report on the subject of geological surveys west of the Mississippi. Ordered to be printed.

The House at 3 45 o'clock took a recess for the preparation of the Hall for the obsequies of Mr Mellish. The funeral services were solemn and impressive. They were conducted in the presence of members of the Senate to whom seats were assigned in the eastern section of the Hall. The presiding officer occupying a chair beside the Speaker. The members of committee appointed to accompany the remains occupied chairs on one side of the area in front of the clerk's desk and the widow and two other ladies, relatives of Mr. Mellish, with his three little children occupied seats on the other side. The coffin was carried in by four of the capitol police and placed on the bier in the centre of the area. The religious services were conducted by the chaplains of the two houses assisted by Rev Dr Rankin. The seat and desk of the deceased member were draped all day and an offering of flowers placed upon the desk. At the conclusion of the funeral services the body was borne out, the Senate returned to its own chamber, and the House adjourned. The body, with officers, mourners and committee leaves for New York to night.

THE TEMPERANCE CRUSADE

EXCITEMENT AT PITTSBURG

PITTSBURG, Pa, May 26. The temperance excitement continues on the increase. Several large mass meetings were held yesterday. A hearing was had in the case of 53 ladies arrested Saturday and the argument will close before the Mayor to-day. An immense mass meeting was held in the Second Presbyterian Church after the adjournments of the Court yesterday. The church was crowded and the greatest enthusiasm prevailed.

BOSTON.

THE AGASSIZ MEMORIAL.

BOSTON, May 26. The plan for the establishment of a "teachers' and pupils' fund" in memory of Agassiz, has met with general and cordial approval. The Superintendents of Public Instruction in 31 of the States and Territories, have taken a strong personal interest in it. The States of Maine, New Jersey, Illinois and Kansas, and the cities of St. Louis, Chicago and St. Louis, have issued official circulars to accompany the circulars which have been issued by the Committee, nearly 60 000 of which are now in the hands of teachers throughout the country.

AGASSIZ'S BIRTHDAY,

Thursday next, 28th inst, is fixed upon as the day for receiving the voluntary offerings of the schools of the country, but contributions are already being received from various sources. Including gifts from children in humble schools in the far west. The result promises to be of great interest and of substantial value and will constitute one of the most beautiful tributes to the memory of Agassiz.

IOWA

THE INDEPENDENCE FIRE.

CHICAGO, May 26. A special from Dubuque, Iowa, says that the estimated loss by the fire at Independence is $50,000. Three men who ordered a quire of new goods are supposed to be lost, as the floors fell after they went in, and they have not since been seen. The blow is a severe one to the town and the adjacent country.

MASSACHUSETTS.

THE R. W. GRAND LODGE OF GOOD TEMPLARS

BOSTON, May 26. The Right Hon. Worthy Grand Lodge of Good Templars, the representative body of the largest temperance order, are holding the twentieth annual session in Melodeon Hall. Samuel D. Hastings of Madison, Wis., presides. About 150 delegates and members are in attendance, representing the majority of the lodges of United States, England, Scotland, Wales and Canada.

THE ANNUAL ADDRESS

read by the Secretary shows a membership at a saving to them of about ten dollars a month.

—The State Railroad Commissioners, Messrs. Blake, Wilkes and Anderson, arrived in this city last evening on a special train over the Maine Central, accompanied by Superintendent Lincoln and Chief Engineer Holt of that road. They will to day visit and inspect the Piscataquis division of the E. & N. A. Railway.

FIRE IN ORLAND. Yesterday morning at about 1 o'clock a warehouse belonging to Mr. N H. Powers, of Orland, was consumed by fire. Word was sent to Bucksport for assistance, and one engine went part way, when on learning the fire would not spread, returned. The wind blew a gale, and if everything had not been so wet from the recent rain, there would undoubtedly have been quite a conflagration. The origin of the fire is unknown.

NARROW ESCAPE. A man whose name we did not learn had a very narrow escape from death Monday afternoon near McAdam Junction. The engineer of the train bound to Woodstock saw the man lying with his head on the rail, he whistled the alarm and the man made a movement which, fortunately, so changed his position that the cow-catcher, striking him on the jaw, threw him from before the train and thus he escaped a fearful death, without only a comparatively slight wound. He was taken up and carried on the train back to the Junction.

THE RAILROAD WAR. In the suit at law Boston & Maine Railroad vs. Maine Central Railroad, for refusing to connect, the defendants have demurred to the declaration, in order to settle questions of law arising in the case. The presiding Judge pro forma overruled the demurrer and the case goes to the Law Court. This is the suit brought by the Boston & Maine to recover $5000 damages when the Maine Central warned the Boston & Maine to connect at their peril, and both roads had a force of laborers on the ground, and about which so much controversy has arisen relative to the "Transfer Station."

EATON FAMILY SCHOOL. The eighteenth annual exhibition of the Eaton School at Norridgewock will occur on Wednesday, June 17th, and will consist of examination of classes during the day, with declamations, readings, etc., in the evening. A reunion of the alumni will be held on the following day. Business meeting and election of officers at 10 A. M., oration by Rev. Custello Weston at 11, followed by a poem by Mr Nathan H. Dole. The reunion dinner occurs at 1 P. M. and a levee in the evening. Former students intending to be present are requested to at once notify the Secretary, Mr Frank J. Watts, of Norridgewock.

PURSUIT AND CAPTURE. The Secretary of the Society for the Prevention and Cruelty to Animals made complaint at police headquarters last evening that a young man named Charles Smith was driving a horse about town in an abusive manner, and an officer started to take him into custody, but just as the gentleman in brass coat and blue buttons was about to lay his hand on his shoulder, Smith whipped up his horse and drove up Hammond street like mad. Not to be baulked, the officer secured a team and after a long pursuit captured his man and lodged him in the lockup.

FIRE INQUEST. The inquest into the origin of the fire which destroyed Blackwell's saloon in Mercantile square a week ago last Sunday, is nearly concluded. The jury, consisting of Hon. A. W. Paine, Gen'l Gorham L Boynton and Hon. Joseph S. Wheelwright, with Deputy Sheriff Bean, as officer in attendance, held a protracted session yesterday, and adjourned for the purpose of hearing further testimony which, however, will occupy but little time further, and a verdict may be expected in a few days. The inquest is held under the law passed by the Legislature of 1873, which was, we believe, framed by Hon. A. W. Paine of this city, when State Insurance Commissioner.

EAST MAINE CONFERENCE SEMINARY. The anniversary and graduating exercises of the East Maine Conference Seminary, at Bucksport, will occur on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, June 8th, 9th and 10th. The examination commences on Monday and continues through Tuesday. On Tuesday evening Rev. C. F. Allen, D. D., will publicly address the students at the M. E. church. On Monday at 1.30 o'clock in the afternoon the students will hold their annual exhibition. Excellent music has been engaged and no doubt the occasion will be one of interest. In the evening a social reunion of students and alumni will be held in the Seminary chapel. The Fall term of this institution opens on Wednesday August 5th. We understand that superior advantages are to be presented. A new and complete apparatus for philosophical and chemical experimenting will be prov ded and regular courses of scientific lectures will be established; at the same time no pains will be spared in the classical department to afford the most careful and thorough preparation for college, nor will the elementary department be neglected.

LUMBERMAN DROWNED. Another man was drowned Friday on the Carrabassett river drive in Jerusalem township. His name was Savage, from New Brunswick, and he was of the firm of Anderson & Savage who were operators last winter in hauling this lumber for the Franklin Land and Lumber Company. He had charge of a section of the drive, and the crew were breaking a jam when in head fell down, letting Mr Savage and another man into quick water. When they were got out, both, supposed to be dead, but the efforts to resuscitate them were successful in the case of the second man. Mr. Savage had passed the line of life. So great was the dejection of the crew because of this sad casualty only the third day after the death of Mr. Ganiece, that some forty of the men quit work, and went down to the settlement claiming that a greater degree of care should be used by the directors to save the lives of the men. They are obliged to cut the logs short to enable them to run them in this stream, and such logs are dangerous to go on in quick water.

TEMPERANCE AT UPPER STILLWATER. Mr. Editor,—Hearing accounts of the temperance meetings in all the neighboring towns, I felt quite desirous that you should hear from us. We are few in number comparatively, but our laborers are earnest, hard-working, temperance people. Our weekly meetings are well attended and very interesting. In them new ideas are obtained in relation to this work, and courage given to those who have signed the pledge, of which there are over one hundred. The sale of intoxicating liquor has ceased to a very great extent. Some believe it to be wholly stopped, but the enemy, with which we have to contend is crafty and powerful, and to resist such a foe successfully will require our mightiest efforts, and if the sale is lessened we do not intend to lessen our labors. We have in our community as in all others, many luke-warm temperance people. They believe this work to be a good one, but think it can be carried on without their assistance; but we hope by hard labor and earnest prayer, to wake them up to a realizing sense of their condition.

E.

THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY. We hear that things are in waiting for the graduating exercises of next week. The Visiting Committee appointed by the State Conference has been warned, and the Trustees summoned for their annual Conference.

The anniversary prosper will be this day week in Dr. Field's church, when a class of 44 Gen. Chas. Jarvis and Chandler, and also the pupils are expected to the Reading room to passengers, but also allows their employes to board at the house with their families every night, to the public. The orator will speak for discussion, taking up the question of "Liberals in Congregational Churches." The first speaker will be Rev. E P. Parker of Hartford, Conn. Prof Jotham B Sewall of Bowdoin College will address the Societies on Tuesday evening. The Societies themselves will celebrate their anniversary on Monday evening, Messrs. Edwards, Rogers, John Evans and Hayes to be the speakers. The usual closing address to the graduates will be given in a sermon by Professor Barbour, in the First Parish Church on Sunday evening May 31.

INDEPENDENT ORDER OF GOOD TEMPLARS We have received from W. F. Merrill, Esq. of Portland, G. W. S. of the Grand Lodge of Maine, I. O. of G. T., the printed proceedings of the sixteenth annual session of that organization held at Lewiston April 8th, 9th and 10th, 1874. The report of the Secretary shows that the number of lodges in the State in October was 185; number instituted since 28, total, 213. Twenty three have surrendered or forfeited charters since October, leaving the present number 190. Forty new lodges were instituted during the year, 6784 persons initiated, 227 admitted by card, and 76 reinstated, making a total gain of 6091 members. The number withdrawn by card during the year was 821, withdrawn from the order, 893, died, 107; expelled, 108, lost by surrendered or forfeited charters, 506; total loss, 5330. This leaves the net gain during the year as 603. The total number of members at annual meeting of 1873 was 14,077; membership at last annual meeting, 14,775. From special returns the G. W. S. thinks the present membership is nearly 15,000. The following table shows the receipts, expenditures, membership and number of lodges since 1868.

Year	Receipts	Expenditures	Increase in Membership	Lodges Instituted
1868	$6,110 86	$5,864 41	95	4

LITTLE GIANT FIRE ENGINE HOUSE. We have previously spoken of the improvements in progress in the rooms occupied by the Little Giant chemical fire engine, No. 1, on Hammond street. The improvements have been completed, and the quarters of the company are now in capital order. The exterior and interior have been painted, by Eldridge & Shaw, who have also done the walls with handsome paper. An elegant sign, painted by Mr. D. B Heal, has been put up over the door. Mr. T. T. Gates has presented and put up a fine chandelier, the porcelain globes on which were donated by J S Ricker & Co., and Gen. Daniel White has given a large and expensive clock. The expenses of the repairs, etc., were partially covered by a subscription of nearly $100 by friends of the company, and Messrs. Eldridge & Shaw, D B Heal, Capt James Davis and others have performed a large proportion of the work gratuitously. Friends of the company in New York have given a set of engravings pictures, and Mr. Heal two oil paintings, and these hanging upon the walls together with numerous photographs and pictures presented by members, give the room the appearance of a picture gallery. The members keep a number of papers on file, and take great interest in keeping the rooms in fine order. They propose, if the Chief Engineer will furnish a bed, to take turns in sleeping in the house, so as to be early on hand in case of fire. Gen. Smith, General Agent for the engines, is to bring here in a few weeks a new machine of elegant pattern, finished with nickel trimmings, which is to be built especially for the use of this company.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

ELENA, an Italian tale by L. N. Comyn, is a volume which will hold a place among the better class of society novels, to be a finely told story, without any of the feverish sensational, which too often forms the greater part of the fiction works of the day. The interest which centres in the young girl Elena in the first chapter is ably strengthened as the reader is taken through the scenes and principles of her life. The characters are well drawn and descriptive narration is finely wrought. Estes & Lauriat, Boston, publishers. For sale by Messrs. D. Bugbee & Co.

CITY SPARROWS and Who Fed Them, is the title of a very interesting and instructive book for young readers, which will rank highly among publications of its class. This story is well told and throughout the several chapters inculcates many a lesson of christian virtue and love. Henry Hoyt, publisher, Boston. For sale by Messrs. D. & C. W. Gibson.

FEMALE BEAUTY AND ART OF PLEASING. This work is a translation from the French by Miss M T Nash. The first part of the book is devoted to descriptions, recipes etc., for improving and restoring the beauty with which the possessor may have been endowed, or which she covets. The Art of Pleasing, or second part of the volume, is a treatise on the art of dressing and the merits of different costumes. G. W. Carleton & Co., Publishers, N. Y. For sale by Messrs. D Bugbee & Co.

BEATEN PATHS OF A Woman's Vacation This is a very interesting account of a European trip by Ella W Thompson, the more so because the author gives her ideas of the people, scenes, and incidents of travel in the Old World, in an unstudied style that makes the book one really refreshing to read. Lee & Shepard, Publishers, Boston For sale by Messrs. D Bugbee & Co.

Congress having fixed upon a time for final adjournment, the general appropriation bills will doubtless receive attention to the exclusion of other legislation, and "the last of time" will be inscribed on the tombstone of many an unnecessary legislative project, while some really deserving bills will be involved in the same fate.

FIRE AND LOSS OF LIFE IN ST. JOHN. By a fire Monday night on Millstream, in St. John, houses owned by Eugene Savage, Daniel Daley and John Daley were destroyed by fire and twelve families were burned out. Wm Allen and Lewis Allen during the fire fell into a cellar and had limbs broken, and by the falling of a chimney of Savage's house, against that of Rafferty's. Firemen Robert Grier and George Crawford, No. 2, Wm. A. Smith and Nixon of No. 1, and Samuel Dunlap of No. 3 were imprisoned for a time. All were rescued more or less injured except Grier, who died from broken limbs and burns before being extricated. The property was part ally insured in the Liverpool, London & Globe and Scotch Imperial offices.

TESTIMONIAL

MATTHIER KELLER,

COMPOSER OF THE

"AMERICAN HYMN," ETC.

BOSTON, Nov 1 '67

H R STEVENS, Esq

DEAR SIR—As I speak an entire stranger to you I feel that I do not take too much liberty in giving my strong recommendation of the merits of VEGETINE

I have for a long time suffered severely from a complication of diseases such as dyspepsia (from which I am still a sufferer) and many local ailments so-called, remedies without end, and in fact all kinds of medicine, including, and there I decided to give it a fair trial.

After having taken only two bottles I became strongly convinced that it was doing me wonderful good, and that the only mistake I had committed was in not commencing it sooner than I did.

I shall continue its use, for I feel that it is indispensable to a restoration to health.

I feel it a pleasure as well as a duty to give the public my unsolicited approval of your excellent VEGETINE. MATTHIER KELLER

INDUCED BY FRIENDS.

EAST MARSHFIELD, Aug — 1 70

MR STEVENS—

DEAR SIR—I have recently been years of age. I had suffered with Kidney Complaint for many years, which finally settled in my back, rendering me entirely helpless. I was induced by friends to try your VEGETINE, and have used it three months, and am happy to say that I have entirely recovered from my disease, and am now able to attend to my business. I have taken in all three bottles of VEGETINE, and consider it the best medicine in the world for the complaint for which it is recommended.

Yours Truly,

JOSIAH H. SHERMAN

VEGETINE

Purifies the Blood and Restores the Health.

GENERAL DEBILITY.

In this complaint the patient feels tired all the time. He can neither sleep or eat. Everything tastes bad, and has no relish for food. Nothing strengthens him. He is all run down, and has no energy. VEGETINE invigorates and restores the whole system, and makes the weak strong.

Would Not be Without VEGETINE

FOR TEN TIMES ITS COST.

This is to certify that I have for the last two years been afflicted with a humor in the blood, which caused me to have a very bad appearance on my face. I was induced to try VEGETINE, and have used three bottles, which has entirely cured me. I would not be without it for ten times its cost, if I could not get any more. I have also given it to my children for humor, and it has done them much good.

I have been troubled with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint for a number of years, and have used VEGETINE with the best results. I have also given it to my children for humor, and it has done them much good.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

AT THE BRIDAL.

BY BRIDGET DESSOFF, OF HOBOKEN.

We stood the doors, that morning
To the speakers and ancient church,
And gayly the yellow sunshine
Blossomed in on the women perch-
Removed over the swelling satins,
Over jewels and waving plume,
Over wedding and bridal ballads
Over women all beauty and bloom.
And I paused to look at the pageant
In the middle of the sunniest side,
And I hear the priest murmur Forsaking
All others cleave only to her.

Fair we raised the taper-set altar,
And—and how the organ's breath,
While the bowed heads have responded,
To—and to Death till death

The light from the great rose-window
Came, splendid, pouring down,
On her face where veil's gossamer
Almost hid a crown
And I knew by the mortal passion
With which he—and he kissed her
That Death and his agent before her
For her feet to tread upon.

But the bride was softly smiling,
Love is to and bright and fair
The world was the sky on her finger,
Heaven but the rose in her hair

And I would there had been but a glamour
In—and a—in the air
At least—one tear of breaking
And I—a—to—her
Here—the darkest shadow
I—pened—moment
A—ly—and—ly
The—ast—ly—breaking—
Had—born from the—ge—ting—
Into—ark—of—the—are—ash—sunset—
We—think—river—before—her
With—my—other—ver—rest.
